Hispanic Heritage Month

Happy Homecoming week, GHS, and Happy 3rd week of Hispanic Heritage Month! As we look forward to all the beautiful and snappy 'fits on Saturday, it felt appropriate to highlight some of the traditional outfits in Hispanic culture.

Traditional outfits vary across the Hispanic world, with Mexican traditions featuring the woman's embroidered huipil (pronounced "wee peel") and long skirt, and the man's charro suit with its decorated pants and jacket, and the widely recognized sombrero. Other Latin American countries have diverse styles like the guayabera (pronounced "gai a beh reh"), a formal shirt for men, and the poncho, an iconic garment from Central and South America designed to keep the wearer warm and dry, with designs ranging from practical to fashionable and elaborate.

Happy week 3 of Hispanic Heritage Month, and enjoy ALL the 'fits this week!
